

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a system and method for providing prepaid services. In architecture, the system includes logic for connecting to a network. Logic is used for requesting access realtime prepaid services, and logic also is used for 5 acquiring access to the prepaid services. The present invention can also be viewed as a method for providing prepaid services. The method operates by connecting to a network, requesting access to realtime prepaid services, and acquiring access to the prepaid services.